

THE VERY FIRST HISTORY OF CHAUTAUQUA

Very few people know anything about the Chautauqua movement which was born in 1874, and is now forty-eight years old. The first Chautauqua was held on the banks of Lake Chauteauque...

Since that eventful summer millions of people have received education, inspiration and entertainment from Chautauqua. Bishop Vincent generally referred to it as a world where the soul—more nearly equal credit should be given Lewis Miller...

He had his specific satisfaction. He had time to see from 3000 to 4000 towns and cities of America holding Chautauqua sessions each summer—and he had also lived to see the movement grow up with some phases of it establishing itself in England, Africa, Japan and Sweden.

Now for the information of those who sometimes carp at the modern Chautauqua, we wish to assure them, that the most intellectual and classical men and women of that time are no century or in music, the great Vincent and Miller's conceptions of the Chautauqua, and are constantly doing some wonderful thing in honor of the founders of this movement which is teaching around the world.

THE BOATS AT CHAUTAUQUA

"V. presume that many of the readers of the Chautauqua Echoes, who are acquainted with the expert manager of the boat concession, Captain Brock. He is the kind of a man that goes out of his way to accommodate the public, even if He has never been given the pleasure he so richly deserves. He has never suggested getting rich out of his concession, but he is anxious that the patrons and visitors at Chautauqua, shall patronize the boats.

Any information you may want concerning river trips or excursions, row boats, launches, or motor boats see Captain Brock who is a warm personal friend to every Chautauquan.

Will save one suggest a "Barnet's Day" at Chautauqua. On such a day we might get some of the former hauler's to return and celebrate a "home coming day," and another crowd of present time Chautauquans, who would join in the fun. The "Barnet's Day" and "Barnet" things at this wonderful resort.

OUR LOVED ONES

We shall miss some very familiar faces at Chautauqua during the coming years, as several of our most beloved friends have gone to their eternal home. It is a sad day, every thinking, loving soul will find it so.

Mr. R. H. Flinnigan, wife of Judge Flinnigan, counsel for the New Plaza Chautauqua, passed on to her new home on January 27th, 1921. Her husband, the Ladies' Civic Improvement Association, and was greatly appreciated for her wisdom and superb leadership. She was independent in mind, severe to herself and superficial life. She was under the influence of that religion which has made the difference between the man and the woman, and through the more wonderful years of her developing life, and He was also real to her heart, her home, her life, and He was of short duration. Let us remember that she has been transferred to another sphere, to an elevation, and a perfection of which we see here but never.

Agnes Frank W. Palmer, wife of our former popular director, Frank W. Palmer, of St. Louis, died on March 22nd, and her death was unexpected, even by her family, until a few hours before her passing. The Ladies' Civic Improvement Association, and was greatly appreciated for her wisdom and superb leadership. She was independent in mind, severe to herself and superficial life. She was under the influence of that religion which has made the difference between the man and the woman, and through the more wonderful years of her developing life, and He was also real to her heart, her home, her life, and He was of short duration. Let us remember that she has been transferred to another sphere, to an elevation, and a perfection of which we see here but never.

Mr. W. S. Mahan, of Palmyra, Ill., that good woman who was always doing a kind act for some one else, died at her home in Palmyra on March 22nd, and her death was unexpected, even by her family, until a few hours before her passing. Let us remember that she has been transferred to another sphere, to an elevation, and a perfection of which we see here but never.

The former was in charge of the Chautauqua some several years ago, and had recently built a spent some time each year at this country home at a Dr. Dillman, of East St. Louis. He was formerly a director. We shall miss these men, for they were both interested in the growth and progress of the popular life at this interesting resort.

We shall miss to others all these dear people who have gone from our Chautauqua population during the past few years. We shall miss their memory, and love to recall their many, many deeds of kindness while they dwell among us.

THE CHAUTAUQUA STORE

The store will be operated by Bernard Miller, and will handle all the goods which we have managed this concession for two seasons with great success. Mr. Bernard will be in charge of the Chautauqua store. He will open the place early in the season, and will be glad to have the experience in this mercantile life. He is a cordial and able in his dealing with the people.

Many times last season we saw him leave his cozy cottage after he had closed the store, and return to his home in Palmyra, Ill., where he would be glad to furnish gasoline or oil for some stranded automobile. He deals in all kinds of groceries, fresh and dried meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, bread and cake, and all the necessities of life. He keeps gasoline and coal oil, and will furnish any article needed for the comfort of the Chautauquan at reasonable prices.

Miss Patrick will have charge of the fancy work department of the very latest novelties. She will be at the Springs Hotel.

THE SPRINGS HOTEL

The Springs Hotel is in the center of our grounds and within a stone's throw of the Auditorium. It is under the efficient management of the Ladies' Civic Improvement Association. There are forty-five rooms ready for occupancy and as clean as the cleanest hotel in the country. The ladies have improved and renovated, and the third floor has been remodeled and the veranda screened. They have been making extensive improvements on every floor, that they may provide comforts for every guest. They do not furnish meals but will provide a temporary home for their guests.

The prices for rooms are as follows:

$5.00 to $8.00 per week, according to location. Special rates will be made by calling on the Manager for the season. The lady directors are to be congratulated for their selection of such a capable woman.

Address all communications to the Manager, Springs Hotel, Chautauque, Ill.

Mr. H. C. Grote, the humorist, who has reached the pinnacle of success in the coffee world, gives us his plan of life in the following poem:

Here's to the fellow who smiles
 When life rolls along like a song,
 And here's to the chap who can smile
 When everything goes dead wrong.
 And he said another thing that has helped many
 A poor fellow since he gave it to the Chautauquans.
 If the day looks kinder gloomy,
 An, your chances kinder slim,
 An, the situation's puzzlin',
 An, the prospect's awful grim,
 An, perplexities keep preain'
 Till all hope is nearly gone,
 Jus bustle up an' git your teeth
 An' keep on keepin' on.

D. W. Caughlan has planned some big improvements for the Chautauque ground, and Emil Fischer, the custodian, has followed instructions, especially on the hill road into the grounds. The big hill has been cut down and the road widened forty feet at the foot of the hill. There is no more big hill. The men have removed the dirt to the level ground below and have graded the road from the main road all the way into the Chautauque grounds. A new culvert has replaced the wooden bridges along the hill road, and now that the work is completed, owners and drivers of automobiles can get into the ground without fear of wrecking or damaging their machines.

Emil Fischer, who is such a lover of flowers, has been developing some new plants in his hot house on the Chautauque ground. He has a good supply of elephant ears and cannas, which will beautify the entrance to the grounds. He is also arranging to give the Chautauquans another display of the night blooming cereus. Hence, the lover flowers. We believe that every visitor to the ground should complement this faithful custodian for giving so much attention to the floral display which helps to beautify the grounds all through the season.

CHAUTAQUA PEP AND PUNCH

She said, "Let us go heating, Jim, without us." "Oh, gosh!" said he.

There wouldn't be any eternal triangle if folks were on the square.

The smaller the idea, the greater the need of big words to put it across.

Why do Chautauque girls like to swim? Because a girl champion swimmer has just married a man worth four millions.

A Chautauque girl said to her friend Holly the other day, "I just love parsnips fried in olive oil."

A lot of men would join the church if the pass-word was secret. How about the women?

The dentist says affected teeth bring ill health. If you are too thin have a tooth out.

Captain Brock says it was a woman who introduced the Piasa Bird in the days of legends. Ask him why?

So far as the records go, it isn't written that Job ever tried to crank a River on a cold morning.

"Mary," said he, "have you ever seen a sunset at Chautauque?" The colors are prettier than the glow of your cheek."

THE NEWEST, BEST CHAUTAUQUA.

By Tom Hendricks.

We have had the baseballs and the fish for county fairs. We have had the grand carnival, and then one horse. But there's a josh! I don't know how to describe it. But there's a josh! I don't know how to describe it. But there's a josh! I don't know how to describe it.

Ma's been a part of the butter money since the news got to our place. And the boys have been affected by amazin' works. They've got a top without a collar, hauling off to feed the stock. And their punin' all their coppers in an old gray wooten sock.

Mother see to me this morning—'we wuz talkin' 'bout the thing. I been fifty years this summer since I was born. I sawed fifty years' much vacation, I've been happy I ain't nothin' long. But I'm gon' to the Shee-talk-way till I get plumb drunk with song.

Then I snuffed hard and said, I guess I'd better feed the stock. I kind hear the bird a-singin' with the tickin' All around outdoors was sunshine, trouble all Well be like a pair of lovers gon' to that Shee-talk-way-way.

L. C. I. A.

"What does this stand for?" asked a newcomer. Well, it stands for more than can fully be told in this brief space. Read the following bit of The Leader. Civic Improvement Association is composed of one hundred leading ladies, each a faithful Chautauquan and the cream of the city. The object of this Association is fourfold: First, to give the women of this county a chance to enjoy many new features for their great pleasure. Second, to welcome strangers and make their stay as profitable and pleasant. Third, to promote a feeling of sweet-fellowship among Chautauquans. Fourth, to aid in helping in the completion of a newer and better Chautauqua.

Success has crowned these ladies' efforts at every turn and inspired them for greater things during the past season. They have given a number of luncheon and post office, built three picnic stores for the accommodation of visitors. Completed the children's playgrounds and furnished the paraphernalia and care to have an instructor for the Assembly and our worthy Chautauqua President and leader says, "What would we do without the L. C. I. A.?"

WRITE FOR INFORMATION.

The Press Chautauquan managers realize that the most valuable publicity comes through the medium of interested friends. All inquirers that will receive prompt attention. Questions on all points relative to arrangements and literature furnished liberally. We invite our friends to send us the names of those persons who might be interested in the work of the Association. We will send them copies of the "Echoes," and Non-resident property owners or strangers to Chautauqua should always feel free to write us about their interests and their inquiries. We want to know all the news to get into the best boxes for mailing. We shall make each edition more interesting.

William Flynn, who was to donate the cornerstone for the new First Presbyterian Church, was having the inscriptions cut in the dressed granite block he had procured from Barre, Vt. One inscription was to read, "First Presbyterian Church, 1897," the other, "Organized June 19, 1831." It was planned to have the cornerstone laying rites in the forenoon of Monday, July 5, which was to be a legal holiday, the Fourth falling on Sunday.

Youngest passenger ever to make a trip, without adult companions, on the "plug" train to West Alton was a three-year-old tot who stole an early-morning ride after observing the bridge train had made a momentary stop on the Alton approach. While attention of trainmen was distracted, he clambered into the baggage coach, where he was found after the train reached the junction at West Alton. Feeling certain the boy must live in Alton, the trainmen brought him back on the return trip. The boy, who could not give his name, said he knew the way home, but to make sure he arrived safely, one of the trainmen accompanied him. The tot led him to the confectionery store of Edward Geeson, near Paul Bros. drug store at Second and Henry, who proved to be his father.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman of East Fourth were to move to San Francisco, where Coleman had secured employment with a glass company. A Sunday school rally was to be the feature of the Fourth of July program at Piassa Chautauqua and the Bluff Line announced a round trip rate for children, including admission to the grounds, of only 25 cents. Dr. T. P. Yerkes was home after a three-weeks vacation stay in Denver. Mrs. S. J. Duncan and daughter, Miss Esther Duncan, were preparing for a trip to Seal Harbor, Me., to spend the summer.

Altonians bound for California included Frank Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Cole, Misses Julia Dow, Bertha Howard, Mrs. A. T. Hawley, Mrs. H. C. Priest, A. L. Daniels, George E. Camp, Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. Thomas Collins, Mr. and Mrs. A. McKee, Miss Lillian Mishop, Mrs. G. L. Field, Dr. T. L. Foulds, Mrs. Herman Stiritz, Theodore Heintz, H. J. Dressler, Jacob Hartmann, and Julius Schneider.

Henry Loehr, a brakeman in the C. & A. yards here, suffered fractures of both legs in a car coupling mishap near the glass works, and Dr. W. Fisher was attending him at his home at Main and Dry streets. Contractor David Ryan completed laying pipe for the 950-foot sewer on East Sixth between North and Spring. A team of horses being worked on a grading job near Lincoln School rolled down the steep embankment there but escaped injury. The Steamer Iowa was at the levee all day taking on coal and a supply of provisions for a government work crew which was cutting willows on the Missouri shore. Another crew of men was cutting willows near Hop Hollow, and their provisions also were being purchased here.

More than 300 from all sections of the county attended a county-wide "hard road" meeting here, the session having been called to sound out public sentiment on how $208,000 in funds returned to the county by the state should be spent. E. J. Lockyer presided at the meeting, having been nominated by L. D. Turner, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Most vocal was a delegation from New Douglas and vicinity in demands that the money be spent to build a road north to Greenville. Others favored using the money to build roads to connect piece-meal stretches of concrete near Highland and Edwardsville. Most of those attending, desiring to show their communities more worthy of a hard road than the others, described how much money their townships had spent on roads. Joe Bardill of Highland stressed that Highland had pioneered in hard roads and already had spent large sums of its local funds for roads. Charles May of Marine related that Marine had recently voted seven-to-one to float a bond issue to build roads. E. C. Willi, chairman of the county board, said that the board merely wanted to "be fair" in its spending of the money.

William Logee filed suit against the Alton, Granite & St. Louis Traction Co., operator of the Alton streetcar system, asking $75,000 for injuries sustained when a car ran wild down State street hill. Most of the claims against the company had been settled, it was said. Logee's suit was filed in circuit court in St. Louis and Logee had a St. Louis attorney.

Cecil A. Dames of Alton and Mary E. Brisbin of St. Louis were married by Justice of the Peace Gorman.

Charles Seibold and William Gissal returned from Chicago, where they had gone in an automobile with J. E. Duffield. They reported that Duffield, an expert driver, had made the trip to Chicago in 12 hours, traveling all the way over hard roads, going via Carlinville, Springfield and Peoria.

C. H. Degenhardt, contractor, informed J. A. Gibson, president of the Alton Automobile Club, that the railroad crossing at Mitchell would not be open for public travel for at least five weeks.

Madison County fire department fire-fighting teams walked off with top honors in demonstrations at the state fair at Springfield. A team from Edwardsville was first, with a Granite City crew second. A Wood River team made fourth place.

Lew M. Fields, famous actor, filed a voluntary petition of bankruptcy, listing assets of $10,500 and liabilities of $82,126.

Joseph M. Page, editor of the Jersey County Democrat, was appointed a member of the Illinois Highway Advisory Board by Gov. Len Small.

Robert LaMarsh, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. George LaMarsh of Deer Plain, was kicked by a horse while visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe LaMarsh near Grafton.

The Ladies' Civic Improvement Association of Piassa Chautauqua elected the following officers: Mrs. C. Bernet, president; Mrs. C. H. Taylor, first vice-president; Mrs. Charles Newcombe, second vice-president; Mrs. L. C. Harrod, east; A. T.
